I am a biologist with habilitation in Marine Biology (2009) and Coastal Management (2010) by São Paulo State University (UNESP - Campus of São Vicente City). Additionally, I have Master's (2013) and Doctorate degree (2017) in Biological Sciences (Zoology) by the Institute of Biosciences of Botucatu - UNESP. I am currently a postdoctoral fellow at UNIFESP, financed by FAPESP. My main research interests are in physiology of stress and experimentation in behavioral ecology, focused in coastal ecosystems, such as estuaries and rocky shores.
